TIMELESS CLASSIC MODERNISM

This classic modernist home designed by architects Max and Zarinan Gurrie for his parents, captures from its elevated position the stunning view across the Anglesea foreshore and the sands of Point Roadknight. Externally clad in naturally weathered cedar its timeless character and quality will endure. Large feature windows focus on the ocean and endless skyline to the south, whilst the east / north orientation delivers sunshine and warmth. The double height ceiling in the open living and dining room spills across the first floor sitting room accentuating volume, whilst the wood fire ensures this lovely room stays cosy. A discreet kitchen with exceptional outlook is efficiently located adjacent dining and the entertainment cupboard hides TV and stereo system, creating a clutter free environment.
